Accounting year 2025-2026 summary of activities, expenditure and income.

The UK Clinical Reasoning in Medical Education Group (CReME) is a group of clinicians, education leads, teachers, and researchers with links in the majority of UK medical schools. CReME business is co-ordinated by a committee elected by its members.

CReME aims to organise/support regular conferences, maintain a website with resources for its members and work together to further our aims.

The aims of CReME:

- To promote excellence in teaching and learning of clinical reasoning in undergraduate and postgraduate medical education
- To provide high quality clinical reasoning related resources for relevant organisations, teachers and learners
- To promote research in the field of clinical reasoning in undergraduate and postgraduate medical education.

Officers of CReME 2025-2026

- Chair of CReME – Professor Nicola Cooper
- Treasurer of CReME – Professor Mark Lillicrap
- Secretary of CReME – Professor Anna Hammond

CReME was incorporated with Companies House as a private company limited by guarantee without share capital on 14th August 2023

The main activities of CReME over the past year have been:

- Website – this was already in place but has been upgraded and now has general and members area and has a variety of available resources for its members
- CReME conference – the 5th national clinical reasoning conference, building on the last national conference that occurred before the COVID pandemic, occurred at the STEM learning centre at the University of York in October 2025. This was an extremely successful meeting with a variety of plenary and workshop sessions from educators across undergraduate and postgraduate education.
- Membership – a membership fee was introduced in 2025-26, allowing members access to website resources, special interest groups and attendance at the annual members meeting that will be taking place at the University of Nottingham in October 2026.
- Supporting clinical reasoning education innovation – there are a variety of website resources that have been developed to support members to innovate
